Karlos Bernart
Singletrack Samurai

Karlos Bernart started adventuring by bike one ride at a time. The goal was always to ride from Canada to Mexico, so he started searching for challenges and routes that prepared him and pushed him to go further and faster. In the process of this journey he discovered he had a gift for connecting the dots of the passable paths in his area. After a few years he discovered that his abilities extended farther and wider than he ever imagined and eventually invited folks to follow his routes and guess what, they did.

Now, many years later, working as SingleTrack Samurai, he encourages folks to chase adventure, test their boundaries and take a moment to follow the routes he has created and organized throughout the years.
