

Ken Bryan – Rails to Trails Conservancy, Florida Director

Ken Bryan is a native Floridian who enjoys the warm outdoor lifestyle the state's trails and beaches offer. He has been the Florida Director for Rails-to-Trails Conservancy for over 30 years and also serves as the Sr. Strategist for External Relations. In this role, Ken is assigned to the team responsible for supporting the Great American Rail-Trail with an emphasis on the eastern states and supporting outreach with the railroads.

Appointed to the Florida Greenways and Trails Council by Speakers Feeney and Thrasher and serving as its chairman for 5 years, Ken has also been appointed by Governors DeSantis to his Transition Advisory Committee on the Environment, Natural Resources and Agriculture. In an interesting twist, Ken has formerly served on Governor Crist's Florida Department of Transportation Transition Team. He currently serves on the Department's Florida Transportation Plan – Strategic Intermodal System Steering Committee and the Florida Greenways and Trails Foundation.

When not chasing down elected officials, public servants and new partnerships, Ken likes to join his riding and adventuring buddies on the next outdoor challenge.
